Into the Roman period on bicycle

Saddle up your bike - make your way into the past, through different regions in Bavaria and Upper Austria. The Roman Cycle Trail not only connects the two neighbouring countries, it is also - as its name suggests - a cycle trail through the Roman period. It is marked next to the normal cycling signs with Roman helmets. During your trip you will come upon excavations and three-part information boards that provide details about Roman life. Uniform rest areas offer time to relax - the children's tables and benches are certainly unique!

The central starting point of your trip is the Three-River City of Passau with the interesting Roman museum Kastell Boiotro. This is where Via Danubia, the "cycling trials of the Roman periode", and Roman Cycle Trail meets. From Passau you cycle relaxed along the river Inn through the Bavarian Rottal, across Europe's largest health town of Bad Füssing and continue to the European Nature Reservation on the Lower Inn. Then cross the hilly Innviertel with its lush meadows and fields. Not to be missed is the Roman museum experience in Altheim.

Before approaching the Salzkammergut, you can face the challenge of the Kobernaußerwald and the trekking bike trail in Fornach.

After passing Wels you continue to Traun. In the leisure center Oedter See you can enjoy a quick dip. Well refreshed you continue from here to St. Florian. Worth seeing here is the Augustiner Chorherrenstift.

> Your goal is Enns - incidentally, the oldest city in Austria and also the first Austrian city which received the certificate "Cittaslow" and currently one of the 133 best places to live in the world - which thrills with the Museum Lauriacum and unique excavations. Here in Enns you also find the Danube bike trail that invites you to return by bike to Passau. Of course this is

St. Georgen
